

IRISH VICE PRESIDENT ASSASSINATED

U. S. FAILS TO REACH AMITY WITH MEXICO

Sheffield Resignation Shows Old Dispute Exists Between Two Nations

STILL FAR FROM ACCORD

Attitude of Mexican Public Will Make Prompt Settlement Impossible

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — While Ambassador Sheffield's resignation from the Embassy at Mexico City is no surprise, it signifies that relations between the United States and Mexico are not going to be satisfactorily adjusted for many years to come. Mr. Sheffield was persuaded to take the post when the oil controversy was acute and his retirement now means that he has accomplished certain objectives in the negotiations.

LAWRENCE

As for the betterment of relations, this is not going to be a task of one or two years or one or two ambassadors. The friction that has been engendered ever since the Carranza regime has been made a political issue inside of Mexico so that as far as the 1928 elections approach none of the Mexican candidates can go to the people on any program of friendship with the United States but must reiterate an independent and even aggressive attitude toward American policies.

Mr. Sheffield has paid the penalty of firmness and is hardly popular with certain Mexican officials whose schemes for confiscation of American property he has frustrated. Until there is a house cleaning in some of the Mexican departments, the diplomatic negotiations which are full of good assurances and promises are bound to be more or less futile, so far as practical results are concerned. Recently one of the Mexican ministers went ahead with a confiscation of property in direct disregard of assurances given by the Mexican ambassador to the United States. The situation is somewhat similar to that which existed just before America's entry into the European war when the German foreign office gave diplomatic assurances that American property on the high seas would not be destroyed only to have the German navy proceed with submarine activities it pleased.

U. S. AWAITS REFORM

President Coolidge has adopted a policy of patience in the hope that constant discussion and revelation of the activities of subordinate officials will tend to bring some reform in the handling of American properties. Mr. Coolidge is well aware that much depends on the kind of man he will send to Mexico City as ambassador. The question really is whether he shall send an experienced diplomat or a man who has a special knowledge of law and constitutional rights.

Several names are being mentioned among them John W. Garrett, Baltimore, who has handled delicate situations in Latin countries before. He has the advantage which Ambassador Fletcher had of speaking Spanish and he is the type of man who does not use bluster in his negotiations. The American government has had both types in Mexico City in the last twenty years. Most of the questions which have arisen, however, have related to property rights.

The American diplomats, however, who have gone to Mexico City have never succeeded in convincing the Mexicans that respect for property rights is essential for international good will and there have been temporary truces only when threats of economic force have been used. The president is not likely to appoint an ambassador very soon but the next stage in American relations with Mexico may truly be said to turn on the kind of man finally selected.

YOUTH STRANGLES AS PART OF OVERTURNED AUTO RESTS ON NECK

Racine (AP)—Lavin Kortendick, 19, Kansasville farmer, was strangled to death, according to Dr. McCracken, Union Grove, when a portion of his overturned car rested on his neck early this morning. Lester Burdick, a companion, suffered a fractured hip and is in St. Mary's hospital here. Kortendick's body is at Waterford. His machine collided with that of Leslie Konsek, Racine, at the entrance to Pan Yak park, Eagle Lake.

CONSTABLE KILLS MAN IN GUN FIGHT

Officer Fires After Being Shot Through Ankles by Chicago Resident

Chicago (AP)—Stanley Thompson, 50, constable of Antioch, Ill., Sunday night shot dead a man identified as Ralph Burnett of Chicago, in a "lovers' lane" gun fight, two miles west of Antioch.

The constable fired from the ground, drawing his revolver only after Burnett had shot him twice, a bullet through each ankle. While Thompson was taken to a hospital, deputy sheriffs formed a posse seeking Burnett's male companion and the two women who were with them in an automobile and whose presence started the argument which led to the constable's intervention.

Resorters along the shores of Channel lake, which the road skirts, said they heard a woman's screams and then saw Burnett throw a girl from the automobile. Cottagers ran to her aid, but were held back by Burnett, who had drawn a revolver.

The constable then appeared and Burnett fled, whereupon Thompson, on the ground, drew his own weapon, killing Burnett.

The automobile containing another man and woman, sped on toward Richmond, Wis. The girl who had been thrown from the car disappeared during the excitement.

POLICE INVESTIGATE TALE OF FINDING DEAD WOMAN

Wausau (AP)—Local officers were called to Hatley Sunday afternoon to investigate a report that the nude body of a woman had been found by children in a pasture about three miles from that village. When the officers arrived they were taken into the woods by the children and the place pointed out but no body or trace of one could be found.

Mary Zajackowski, 14, one of the children claiming to have found the body, reported to her parents the previous Sunday that during that afternoon she saw two men take a woman into the woods at the same place, that two shots and a scream followed and the men hurried from the woods and went away alone in their car. A few days later the woods were searched and nothing found. The officers are at a loss to understand the case as the children, when questioned separately, all tell the same story of the finding of the body and of visiting a second time before the officers arrived. So far as is known no woman in this part of the state is missing.

The marriage of Cornelius Vanderbilt, fourth of that name, and Miss Littleton, Jr., prominent New York lawyer,

SUSPECT HELD AFTER MURDER OF TWO WOMEN

Trail Starts With Finding Disembled Parts of Legs in Park

New York (AP)—A trial that started Saturday with the finding in Battery park Manhattan, of the disembled parts of a woman's legs, had led Monday to a double murder mystery and the arrest of a man suspect.

Bit by bit part of the torso of the slain woman came to light, the trail finally leading to a Brooklyn house, where the disembled body of another woman was found. The victims were Miss Sarah Elizabeth Brownell, 60, a seamstress, and Mrs. Alfred Bennett, 48, wife of an ice man and mother of four children.

Police were holding on a homicide charge, Ludwig Lee, 33, janitor of the Brooklyn house where Miss Brownell lived. The police theory was that Miss Brownell was slain for robbery and Mrs. Bennett killed when she chanced to surprise the murderer at work.

ANOTHER MYSTERY

While police were working on the murder of the two women, another mystery cropped up in a dark cellar in the lower east side where a plumber, sent to repair a water leak in a tenement in Willett-st came upon two bundles containing the disembled portions of a man's body. Police believe the victim had been dead several months. Identification was not established.

Early Sunday, a boy, walking in the yard of St. Augustine's Roman Catholic church noticed a bundle wrapped in a piece of blanket. A policeman opened it and found a portion of the lower part of a woman's torso. Three hours later the manager of a motion picture theatre in Brooklyn told police of finding a package. It contained a woman's left shoulder and arm, the right hand and a leg.

Meanwhile police had received a report from Alfred Bennett that his wife was missing. The Bennetts occupied a house on Lincoln-pl., directly in the rear of 28 Prospect-pl., which the Bennett sold to Mrs. Brownell May 14.

A son, John, 19, recalled that the last he saw of his mother was Saturday when she entered the cellar of the Prospect-pl house to investigate a water leak of which Miss Brownell had complained. The police then went to the other house.

There they found Lee. He denied knowledge of the whereabouts of either woman, but detectives entered the half flooded cellar and with their flashlights discovered further human fragments in three ash cans. Lee was arrested.

While police were trying to unravel the mystery of the ax murder of two women Monday the decomposed head of a woman was found in Brooklyn, which they thought might possibly be the head of Evelyn Martino, 20, missing since June 30.

The young woman, the police were told, left her home with Mrs. Alfred Bennett, to visit at the rooming house of Miss Sarah Brownell, and has not been seen since.

Alabama Lawmakers May Taboo Masks And Robes

Birmingham, Ala. (AP)—Coincident with the announcement from Montgomery Sunday night that a bill would be introduced in the state legislature on Tuesday to ban wearing of masks in the state of Alabama for other than legitimate amusement purposes, the Birmingham Age-Herald revealed another case of flogging by masked and robed men, the third in Alabama within two weeks.

The Age-Herald Monday quoted Eston Murchison, 17, of Bessemer, Ala., as saying that on the night of June 26 he was forcibly taken from an automobile in which he and another youth were riding with two "strange" girls, and was severely whipped by five men who wore hoods and masks.

The girls, said Murchison, were "taken home" by masked men, and Murchison expressed the belief that they had been maneuvered into his company so that there might be "some excuse" for whipping him. He knew of no other reason. His companion was not molested. Murchison did not identify the men.

State law officers have arrived in Florence, Colbert-co, to investigate the whipping last week of Mrs. Bertha A. Slay, 25, by eight men likewise masked and robed. Mrs. Slay said the men entered her home, tied her husband and sister to their beds and took her into the backyard where an effort was made to force her "to confess to some scandal." Refusing, she was repeatedly lashed. The question of identification was uncertain.

DEATH OF IRISHMAN PREVENTS COLLAPSE OF GENEVA PARLEY

Postpone Plenary Public Session in Respect to Memory of O'Higgins

Geneva, Switzerland (AP)—The tragic death of the Irish statesman, Kevin O'Higgins, has, by some strange destiny of events, served to prevent any immediate collapse of the tripartite naval conference.

Out of respect to the memory of Mr. O'Higgins who was present at Geneva only last week as the representative of the Irish Free state, the delegates Monday decided to postpone indefinitely the plenary public session which had been requested by W. C. Bridgeman, head of the British delegation.

Mr. Bridgeman had asked for the meeting in order to give the British delegation an opportunity to restate its position on the cruiser problem to "clear up what he called misunderstandings and to ask a series of questions of the American delegation. Monday's projected session had been considered potentially filled with danger. The American delegation did not desire it because it believed that little good could be achieved by a public debate of this nature. The Americans were ready, however, to answer any of the questions which the British might propound and might even have asked a few questions themselves.

It is understood that the Japanese, like the Americans, looked with some apprehension upon the projected session because of the risk that things would be said which might provoke the "blow up" of the conference.

BRITISH CHANGE MINDS

What was regarded as a significant change in the British attitude toward the cruiser problem was evident Monday afternoon when it was announced in authoritative British circles that if Great Britain and the United States could agree to limit the number of 10,000-ton cruisers to about 10, Great Britain would be prepared to accept the American maximum total tonnage figure of 400,000 tons.

Clude Lettier, 15-year-old St. John youth, was drowned Sunday noon when he jumped into Lake Winnebago at Calumetville. The other boys called to him to come back but he rowed out and after he was several hundred yards from shore, jumped overboard. His body came to the surface once and then was not seen from shore.

His parents were notified and a search for the body was started immediately. The youth's body was found about 9:30 Monday morning at the spot at which he had jumped into the lake. Mrs. John Lettier, mother of the boy, suffered a nervous breakdown when she was told of the tragedy and is under a doctor's care.

JONES QUALIFIES IN BRITISH GOLF MEET

Turns in Card of 76 for First Qualifying Round in English Open

St. Andrews, Scotland (AP)—Bobby Jones, failing to play quite up to the brilliant golf of his practice rounds, returned a card of 76 Monday for his first qualifying round of the British open golf championship in his campaign to regain the open crown which he won so dramatically last year.

Bill McNeillhorn, another American who started early, had a round of 73. Both cards were well within the limit estimated for qualifiers. McNeillhorn was considered particularly good as it was made over the so-called new course, which most golfers considered even more difficult than the championship layout itself over which Jones played.

McNeillhorn 73 equalled par for the new course. The champion couldn't seem to inject brilliance into his game. He finished three strokes down to par, losing them in bunkers and being unable to recover on the greens.

The new greens seemed to baffle the young Atlantic. The birdies simply would not come and he played the entire round without a single one. His partners, E. R. Whitcombe, turned in an 81.

Other scores turned in Monday were: Cyril Tolley, 73; Edward Ray, 76; Archie Compton, 76; George Dunlop, 80.

Johnny Anderson, of the United States, was out in 40 and home in 39 for a total of 79, while Joe Kirkwood had a 75.

DEMAND KLAN HEAD PRODUCE PAPER PROOFS

Prosecutor Asks Documentary Evidence to Substantiate Dragon's Charges

BULLETIN

Indianapolis (AP)—Lloyd C. Hill, attorney for D. C. Stephenson, former Indiana Klan leader, and now a life prisoner at Michigan City, Monday presented to William H. Remy, Marion-co prosecutor, a photostatic copy of a letter to Stephenson and purporting to be signed by Claude M. Worley, inspector of detectives in the Indianapolis police department. The letter, which is undated, contains a promise to name certain men on the police force.

Indianapolis (AP)—William H. Remy, Marion-co prosecutor, Monday called upon Lloyd O. Hill, attorney for D. C. Stephenson, to deliver to the prosecutor certain alleged documents purporting to be signed by Claude M. Worley, inspector of detectives in the Indianapolis police department. The letter, which is undated, contains a promise to name certain men on the police force.

Instead, according to a copyright article in the Indianapolis Times atorney Hill turned over to the Times a check drawn on D. C. Stephenson in favor of Ed. Jackson for $2500. The check from the First National Bank of Columbus, Ohio, is dated Sept. 12, 1923. Jackson was at that time secretary of state. The check is indorsed "Ed. Jackson."

Accompanying the check when it was delivered by Hill to Thomas H. Adams, Vincennes, Ind., publisher and Boyd Gurley, editor of the Times, was a note which declared that the check was the first one-fourth of $10,000 given by Jackson personally for primary expense. The primary at which Jackson was nominated for governor was in May, 1924.

In a letter to the editor of the Times, attorney Hill stated that Stephenson directed him to turn over to Gurley, "certain papers" and that he was "not acting in accordance with that request."

The letter stated that Prosecutor Remy had received an order for Hill to deliver two papers and continued "unfortunately Mr. Stephenson was of the opinion that I had both of these papers but instead I have only one of them. The other one, however, is in my possession. The letter then gives as his reason for not making a public statement denouncing Stephenson that to receive an armful of documents, "and I therefore anticipate that upon receiving only one of the papers designated he will make such a statement."

Prosecutor Remy, on reading the Hill letter, denied the allegation and declared that any documents that Stephenson or his friends might produce which tended to substantiate Stephenson's charges "would be considered to their merits."

Governor Ed Jackson, in Ossawatimie, Kan., Monday said, "D. C. Stephenson never at any time gave me any sum, as a gift for campaign purposes, or any statement that he did is absolutely false."

Governor Jackson said he planned to return to Indianapolis within a day or two. The governor was asked whether he wished to deny that he had received it or any money from Stephenson for campaign expenses but he made no reply.

Post-Crescent Flower Cars Gather Beautiful Bouquets

Fewer flowers but more beautiful bouquets were collected last Saturday morning by the Appleton Post-Crescent flower cars for patients in St. Elizabeth hospital and Riverside sanatorium than at any time since the work was started. Steps were made at 27 homes and about 70 bouquets were collected and all of them were beautiful.

Several donors explained that this week was an "in-between" time for flowers and that more will be available soon. It is hoped that next Saturday the flower cars will make at least 60 stops to pick up flowers for delivery to the sick in the hospital and the sanatorium.

FORGIVES HIS SLAYERS WITH LAST BREATH

All Ireland Mourns Death of Kevin O'Higgins, Noted Leader

WAS ON WAY TO CHURCH

Cabinet Called into Immediate Session to Discuss Situation

Dublin, Ireland. (AP)—Signs of mourning were everywhere Monday for Kevin O'Higgins, "the strong man" of the Irish Free state, whose life came to an abrupt end at the hands of assassins Sunday. He was shot from an automobile as he was walking to mass from his home, near Dublin, and died within a short time with words of forgiveness for his enemies on his lips.

WAS UNGUARDED

O'Higgins, usually accompanied by an escort of detectives, was alone at his own request, for the first time in three years, and his assassins, three of them, sped quickly away after inflicting half a dozen wounds. No motive was apparent.

When O'Higgins, who was vice president of the Free state, council minister of justice and foreign affairs fell with bullets in the neck chest and one ear, he gasped, "I forgive them all."

Eamon Fleming, of the ministry of finance, and Professor John MacNeill, former minister of education, were soon on the scene. The wounded man whispered, "they've got me, just as they got my father." Later he said "I forgive them. I die at peace with my enemies and my God."

He was taken home and shortly before the end said: "I am dying in peace with my enemies. I die for my country. I go to join Michael Collins."

The Free state cabinet was called into session immediately to decide on the necessary steps in what is looked upon as a serious situation, for the slain official was regarded as bulwark of the Free state cause. He had only returned to Dublin last Friday from a League of Nations conference at Geneva.

At one time O'Higgins was a staunch supporter of Eamon De Valera, the Republican leader. His father was shot dead by armed raiders in his own home in 1922.

Several arrests were reported to have been made but no indication has been made that the actual persons implicated in the crime have been found.

An official account of Mr. O'Higgins' assassination says that five men were engaged in the crime when he was shot. All believed to have been the ages of 20 and 35. Descriptions of the men have been obtained.

GREEN BAY MAN PAYS FINE FOR "BOOTLEGGING" FURS

Green Bay (AP)—Twenty thousand dollars worth of illegally trapped beaver and other pelts bought by Charles Abrahams, Green Bay, and slain official was regarded as bulwark of the Free state cause. He had only returned to Dublin last Friday from a League of Nations conference at Geneva.

Abrahams arrest followed an investigation by K. F. Rollin, Peoria, Ill., of the federal conservation department, after he had found the pelts in Chicago. It is expected that more cases growing out of the same transaction, including "bootleg" trappers, and small dealers who supplied the pelts to the Green Bay man, will be forthcoming.

County Judge Fred Heinemann, acting for Municipal Judge Theodore Berg, who is away on a vacation the first three days of this week, adjourned the case until next Monday morning, pending efforts to locate Horner.

Horner was arrested June 18, by Carl Radtke, city motorcycle officer, for driving his automobile on W. College-ave. while under the influence of liquor. He appeared in court June 22, but was granted an adjournment until Monday morning.

In sixty-five years, from 1850 to 1925 the state's industrial products have grown in value from $9,232,068 to $1,559,243,320.

These are figures from tabulations of the census department under the U. S. Secretary of the Interior (1850-1920) Department of Interior (1850-1900).

Du Pont Girls And Women Are Not Given To Social Parading And Extravagant Living

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS

Wilmington, Del.—The women of the du Pont family have not matched socially the commercial achievements of the men, nor have they figured in the business except as stockholders.

No social dictator has been produced by the du Pont line—no celebrated beauty or professional genius. No Nancy Astor or Anne Morgan of du Pont blood has yet arrived to add lustre to the name.

Naturally the du Pont women dominate Wilmington society—they would by their numbers and their wealth. But they travel and entertain without the brass accompaniment.

Though the du Pont women have not been famous social lights, they have been allowed to follow the dictates of their own hearts, and so-called "brilliant marriages" have not been insisted upon. ROOM FOR 50 MORE AT LEGION'S CAMP

Admission Is Granted Only on Certificate of Physician

Fifty more World war veterans may be accommodated at Camp American Legion at Tomahawk Lake according to American legion authorities in Appleton provided they can show cause for applying for admission. World war veterans who are admitted to the camp are given free board and lodging until they are physically able to return to their work.

The American legion rehabilitation camp was established two years ago. Legionnaires are admitted to the camp only on the recommendation of physicians and may get application from their post service office or the state service office. James K. Burns, 137 Second-st., Madison. Alfred C. Bosser, service office of the Oney Johnston post of the legion.

The cost of spending several weeks at the camp is cut to a minimum. Veterans are admitted free but if accompanied by members of their families the expense of the latter must be paid. Cottages are available for family groups. The buildings on the grounds include a dozen cottages and a large building which contains the dining room and a recreation hall.

The state legislature in the present session set aside 160 acres of land adjoining the camp for the establishment of an American legion, tourist camp. This camp will be open to all legion members and the public for the establishment of temporary camp.

Appleton residents who came to make the trip to the camp will find that highway 47 through the village of Tomahawk Lake is the best route. George Merkel, former Appleton health officer and caretaker of Allen park is in charge of Camp American legion.

ALDERMEN VISIT TWO CITIES TO SEE TRACTORS

Members of the street and bridges committee of the city council spent Friday in Watertown and Fort Atkinson, investigating Monarch tractors. A 6-ton tractor was inspected at Watertown and a 5-ton vehicle at the latter city. The city is considering the purchase of a tractor for the street department and the matter was referred to the street and bridges committee at the council meeting last week.

The committee will meet this week to prepare its report for the council meeting next week. Members who made the trip were Mike Steinhauer, chairman; Philip Earle, W. H. Gmeliner, R. E. McGilgan and Philip Vogt. Alderman Wenzel Hussman of the Fifth ward was unable to go.

FACTORY ICE CREAM BEATS "HOME-MADE"

Food Expert Says Belief That "Home-made" Cream Is Best Is Only a Delusion

Madison—(P)—Fallacies and misconceptions of the great American cooler—ice cream—were set out by Dr. H. H. Sommer of the University of Wisconsin's dairy department.

Headlining this group, he said, is the conception that "good old home made ice cream" is better than the manufactured product. Others range from the belief that gelatine is a harmful ingredient to the "aged in the ice box" idea.

The developments of the ice cream industry were also outlined by Dr. Sommer who traced its original localized manufacturing to the great plant of today. Approximately six million gallons of ice cream are now manufactured in Wisconsin each year, he said.

Home-made ice cream, instead of being much purer and better than the manufactured product, in reality is inferior to nearly all other types of cream. The fallacy is based almost entirely upon sentiment, he asserted, and might be partly due to the appetite created by the constant cranking.

Another misconception held by many centers around the belief that "filler" is used in many creams and as a result the product is made impure. No recognized manufacturer uses corn starch or ingredients which would tend to lessen the quality of the product, he said.

Since a quick turnover is the aim of every manufacturer he said, the belief that ice cream is kept in cold storage for many months is entirely false. The average length of time elapsing between manufacturing the cream and its ultimate consumption over dining room tables or in confectionery parlors, was placed at two weeks by the professor.

USE PINE GELATIN

"In former years," he said, ice cream was made entirely from milk, cream and sugar. Then gelatine was introduced as an ingredient as the product became more widely known and its manufacturing took on wholesale proportions. Formerly, the confectioner would make his own cream and sell it a few hours after being made. At that time a stabilizer was not needed.

"When gelatine first came in as a stabilizer there was much opposition to its use and some still protest today. The type used in ice cream, however, is of equally high quality as that used in other pure gelatine foods. State and federal standards all recognize the use of gelatine. One-half of one percent is the maximum which may be used.

"During the last ten years other important improvements have taken place in the manufacturing of the cream. By increasing the content of 'solid' the product is made smoother. Homogenizing use of a high pressure pump, also serves to increase the products quality and purity.

"By means of this, the mixture, while hot, is forced through a small opening. When frozen it is allowed to 'age' for 24 to 48 hours. "As ordinarily made, ice cream contains milk, cream and a concentrated milk of some type, sugar, gelatine and frequently, eggs. The eggs give a richer color and a smoother texture. The ingredients are mixed and heated to pasteurizing temperature, 135 to

Badger History Goes Back To Nicolet's Visit In 1634

Madison—(P)—Wisconsin's history linked with the travels of white men began nearly three hundred years ago when Jean Nicolet, intrepid explorer, landed near Green Bay.

Nicolet, the adventurer, was directed to find the way through the unknown wilderness of the Indian in the country to the westward. A water outlet to the Orient was his goal. He came to Ojibwa, Lake Huron, and Lake Michigan and entered what was later known as the great commonwealth of Wisconsin.

At Red Banks, on the eastern shore a few miles north of Green Bay, he landed, and then a marker has been placed in honor of the visit of the first Wisconsin pilgrim. It was in 1634 that he stepped upon Wisconsin soil.

Nicolet came on a trade mission, confident that he could locate a water route leading to China. Garbed in a brilliantly colored Chinese d'arab, with seven Huron Indians around him, discharging pistols in both hands, the group ascended the picturesque embankments of Green Bay shore to be met by a delegation of Winnebago Indians.

A great feast was arranged, and according to historians, 120 heavier were eaten. The attractiveness of the "new land" spread and soon other explorers followed the route traversed by Nicolet.

Twenty years later, Raddison and Grosvenor, roving fur traders lingered around the shores of Lake Superior, the first "tourists" to take advantage of the state's scenery and climate. Jesuit priests came after Nicolet and log chapels were built to provide places of worship for the traders and others. Scores of old mission sites have been located, similar to those at Green Bay, De Pere, Oshkosh, Manitowish, and Milwaukee. Some have been appropriately marked.

canoe voyage up the Fox River, across the land divide where the present city of Portage now stands, and then down the Wisconsin to make, on June 17, the discovery of the Mississippi river. Satisfied that the river did not span the continent but instead emptied into the Gulf of Mexico, the two travelers' canoe homeward.

Seven years later Du Luth explored another watercourse across the confines of the present state—the Boile Brule-St. Croix route in the Lake Superior region which also emptied into the Mississippi.

Within the next two hundred years the two water routes were to serve as the arteries of commerce for an expanding fur trade. There were no roads and the operations of the traders and voyagers centered around canoe travel.

Throughout the ensuing period the French and British were rivals for the pelt business of Wisconsin. Green Bay and Prairie du Chien at the opposite end of the Fox-Wisconsin waterway became the leading French posts for trade while a port on the Chequamegon Bay gathered the fur from the Lake Superior region. It was not until the close of the war of 1812, when the British were finally removed from influence, that Wisconsin began to take on a distinct individuality.

With the opening of land offices, in 1834, settlers swarmed into the new state and started the agricultural and industrial growth of the Badger commonwealth.

INSTALL RACINE MAN AS PASTOR OF TWIN CITY CHURCH

Rev. Charles E. Fritz Formally Placed in Charge of Trinity Parish

Neenah — "I want to rejoice with you that you have a pastor," said the Rev. G. W. Gensler, D. D., of Racine, president of the Wisconsin conference of the Synod of the North-west, in his sermon at the installation of the Rev. Charles E. Fritz Sunday morning at St. Paul English Evangelical Lutheran church of Neenah-Menasha.

"You never had the experience since your organization of being with a pastor. Then after a long time you have been a long time without a pastor. You will appreciate a pastor now more than at any time in your life. We do not miss things until they are gone. We rejoice with you that you were able to secure one of our own pastors from our own field."

It may seem to you a trivial affair for a man to make a pastoral change. I want to assure you it is not an easy thing because he gets in among strangers. He has to learn again not only the names, but the customs and the disposition of an entire new city.

"It always reminds me when a pastor makes a change of a manner who is a help thrust into his hands of another new ship. He does not know much about the machinery of that ship. He does not know its strength. The crew is new and yet he is asked to launch out and sail the seas. So it is when a new pastor comes to his field. He is asked to do this work. He has a new crew. They have learned to do certain things in a certain way. When one gets into a rut it is hard to get out.

The Rev. Mr. Fritz came to the Neenah-Menasha pastorate from Waukegan, where he recently dedicated the new St. Luke Lutheran church building. He preached his first sermon a week ago. The Rev. Gensler also conducted the installation service which followed his sermon. The program consisted of the prelude, selected; processional, Hymn No. 153; morning service; Epistle, Rom. 8:15-23; canticle, Make a Joyful Noise; choir, Gospel, Luke, 6:36-42; creed; Hymn No. 215; sermon, the Rev. Gensler; offering; announcements; installation service; benediction; recessional, Hymn No. 451.

Special services were held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at which the pastor's staff presented by a recent confirmation class was dedicated.

A feature of the afternoon program was the singing of the hymn, Beautiful Saviour, by the combined choirs of Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Appleton and Neenah. Antems were sung by the Trinity choir of Appleton, and Our Saviour choir of Fond du Lac.

The day's program closed with a reception to the new pastor and his family immediately after the afternoon service. Supper was served and a program was given. Music was furnished by St. Paul orchestra and a male quartet.

BADGER OSTEOPATHS ON DENVER PROGRAM

Milwaukee (UP)—Three Wisconsin physicians are named in connection with the program and other activities of the convention of the American Osteopathic association which meets in Denver, July 25 to 30.

There are two main parts of the convention program. The forenoon sessions are given over to general sessions which all may attend while the afternoons are divided into sections giving a larger choice of subjects. Dr. E. C. Bond, Milwaukee, has part in a discussion on the general program on July 27.

On the same date Dr. Victor W. Purdy, Milwaukee, will give an address on Public Clinics.

This will be the thirty-first annual convention of the association, although osteopathy itself has been practiced for fifty-three years. Dr. A. T. Still, father of osteopathy, began his investigation in the eighteen-fifties, and did not make a public announcement of his findings until 1874. For eighteen years longer he put osteopathy into practice before he organized a school to teach it to others and so it was not until 1897 that there were enough physicians practicing osteopathy to form a society.

Attend Convention
County Clerk and Mrs. John E. Hantschel will attend the twenty-second annual convention of the Wisconsin County Clerks association, which is to be held from July 20 to 22, inclusively, at Chippewa Falls. Mr. Hantschel is secretary of the organization.

6TH WARD ALDERMAN STRONG FOR VIADUCT

Vogt Says Wisconsin-ave Outlet Needed to Take Traffic Off Pacific-st Bridge

A viaduct, as planned by the Wisconsin railroad commission on E. Wisconsin-ave, is a necessity, Philipp

Vogt, alderman from the Sixth ward, declared last week. The plan suggested by W. H. Vanderheyden, Fifth ward alderman, for jettisoning off the street to avoid the expense of the tunnel is not feasible in the opinion of the representative from the Sixth ward.

It is imperative that a viaduct be built soon, Mr. Vogt continued, as the heavy traffic now routed over the Pacific-st bridge will wear out the bridge within two or three years, he believed. The railroad commission ordered the Chicago Northwestern Railroad Co., the Wisconsin Traction Light Heat and Power Co. and the city to build a viaduct, the two transportation companies to bear the expense of the span and the city the cost of the excavation, he stated. If these orders are not carried out soon, the city should not expect the railroad company and the traction company to hold off with their work until the council decided to start in an indefinite future, Alderman Vogt maintained. It is economy in the long run to build the viaduct now, he believed, because of the hard use being made of the Pacific-st bridge, intended for lighter traffic.

TAILORS MIGHT DEVISE A WAY TO HELP MEN KEEP COOL IN SUMMER

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

WE Americans pride ourselves on our independence.

About the Fourth of July we swell our chests and strut about and make a noise about something our ancestors did a hundred and fifty years ago.

Just how independent are we now? I wonder!

Isn't the word "imported" still a fetter—a word to cower with?

Right now I am referring to London tailors—the last word in fashions for men, just as Paris is the last word in fashion for women. Our American tailors follow their lead.

As far as cut goes, London tailors may be fashion's dictators with their blessing, but as far as appropriateness goes for American men I've got something to say.

The English people have an enviable faculty for dressing to suit the weather. The English gentlemen wear tweeds in Scotland during the shooting season, they wear linen suits in their tropical colonies, and wool more or less the year round in London, London and other cities in England seldom get as hot as our own American cities in summer. The climate is inclined to be damp and a bit rainy, summer and winter.

American men have eventually—but they were years doing it—come to the knicker and Norfolk for outdoor sports that the Englishman has effected for years. Very good! And no doubt in summer they would also adopt the linen suits of the colonial Englishman—but for one reason labor is cheap. In hot climates it is possible to keep clean and fresh for next to nothing. But not so here! That puts the linen suit in the discard, except for the rich.

Dond Street cannot make a summer costume for American men. Can't our own American tailors use a bit of ingenuity to make the male comfortable and enable him with propriety to discard woole necks—or all coats—on boiling summer days? Why not a specially designed shirt of silk or other soft material? Amateurs are amateurs, true but comfort is comfort. Behind most popular movements is common sense.

Why cannot American tailors assert their independence in this season of independence and put out a hot weather suit for American men?

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

PARADING on your hands, "tis true, is not an easy thing to do, so all the little Tynmites soon got back on their feet. The Princess then said, "Follow me. You've seen all that there is to see in Upside-Down Town, and I hope, it's really been a treat."

"You bet it has," the bunch replied. And shortly they were all outside. "What can we do now?" Clowzy asked. "I'd like to rest a while," "What suits me, too," the Princess said. "Why, I'm so tired I'm nearly dead."

The Tynmites then flopped on the ground, which made the Princess smile.

It wasn't long till all the band were snoozing deep in slumberland. They'd picked a dandy shady place beneath a spreading tree. The Princess also took a nap, and when she woke, right in her lap she found a flippant little elf, as happy as could be.

Said he, "I hope I'm welcome here. I like wee tots, so have no fear."

Please wake up all the Tynmites, so I can say 'hello' to them. The Princess clapped her hands and then the Tynmites were awake again. The elf said, "Howdy do," and then he shouted, "I must go."

Before they knew it, he was gone. They watched him scamper 'cross the lawn. It sure surprised the Tynmites. He disappeared so quick. The Princess then said, "Now we'll see how wonderful my wand can be. If you'll just watch me closely I will do a startling trick."

She waved her wand around through space. A change came over Clowzy's face. "I surely feel filled with fear," the Princess giggled. "Don't you fret. I'll make a monkey of you yet." And that's exactly what she did. No wonder he felt queer!

Five Elemental Rules For Achieving The Allure Of Elusive Aromas--Perfumery, A Subtle Feminine Art Not To Be Overdone

BY JULIA BLANCHARD

FACTORY fatigue threatens mankind unless women learn how to use perfume correctly, is the assertion of Lucien Lelong, Paris perfumer.

"A subtle elusive scent is interesting, alluring," he says. "But today women choose heavy, exotic, spicy odors and then pour it onto themselves until they are positively obnoxious."

"Perfuming one's self is a gentle, subtle art. To reek of scent, even the most expensive, is not only bad taste but defeats perfume's purpose—that of giving additional allure to women."

"Women spend time and energy learning how to make-up and how to dress. Then they ruin the effect by loadvise themselves up with heavy scent. If they would make the most of their loveliness, women will give a little ease to learning the art of perfuming."

"There is a right way and a wrong way—just as there is in everything in life that counts."

Among the don'ts, two warnings stand out because they are almost universal sins:

1. Don't pour perfume from the bottle upon your dainty handkerchiefs or underthings. Perfume applied in this manner is not lasting and when first applied is overpowering and unpleasant to those near you.

2. Don't touch perfume to your gown. In the first place it may stain. But worse than this, a daintily gowning woman with a sufficient quantity of perfume applied to last several hours is a contradiction. For the pungent odor betrays her good taste in her gown.

The right way can be summed up in about five rules, every one of which is important:

1. After a luxurious bath and brisk rub-down, spray your body lightly with your favorite scent. Toilet water of the same brand as your perfume is best for this.

2. Apply a few drops of your perfume to the lobes of your ears and to your temples with either a perfume-izer or your finger-tips.

3. As a final charm, touch your lips with a tiny drop with a perfume-izer.

4. Put your lace undergarments and your gown on now and you will find that you exume the most elusive kind of delicate sweetness with just enough allure to make one want to scent more. That is the test of perfumery.

ONE DROP ADDS CHARM TO THE LIPS

5. Keep little tufted silk bags, about an inch square, heavily perfumed, in with your handkerchiefs, your gloves and in the lining of your hats. When putting away your lingerie, gently spray it with your perfume if you have not used tufted bags.

These simple rules are elementary in the art of perfuming. For perfume applied indirectly is much more appealing and more restful. It is always better not to have enough scent about you than to have too much. For consideration of others in the matter of applying perfume is as good a rule as in any other act in life.

Use little perfume, and only the best kinds. Use it indirectly and never after you are rowled for the street. You will find the effect potent in inverse proportion to the amount used.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

Not two whole weeks had passed before Faith asked Bob Hathaway the inevitable question, a throb of fear and hurt love in her voice:

"Darling, don't you love me any more?"

And Bob, pain and reproach, both of himself and her, darkening his now rather tired blue eyes, swept her into his arms and held her hurtlingly tight against his breast, as he answered, huskily:

"Love you? Why, you foolish darling, I love you so much I can't work comfortably without torturing myself with the need for a glimpse of you."

"You haven't told me so for two days," Faith gasped, but a smile shone luminously through her tears.

"Honey-girl, if I don't tell you so again for six months, the truth itself will not be changed an iota. I love you for keeps, sweetheart. With me it's the great principle that makes the world go 'round'."

That had kept her tremulously happy for a day, but the next day and the next she listened for the words and wept a little after Bob had gone to sleep at night because he had not uttered them. She told herself, sorrowfully, that during those first three heavenly days Bob had uttered them a hundred times, as if the sound of the words could never grow monotonous, as if they were new each time he said them.

Of course the omnipresence of the family had a great deal to do with his more casual attitude. Bob was reserved, she kept reminding herself. He could not give her one of those long, lingering kisses with her father or Joy or Cherry looking on.

The first time that Bob left for his office without kissing Faith goodbye was a day of stark tragedy. He did not love her any more, or if he did, the flame had died down, and he loved her coolly, as all husbands did. She did not want kindly affection, absent-minded tenderness; she wanted passionate love, leaping in his eyes and tingling in his fingertips when he caressed her hair adoringly.

Those three days, when love had been so glorious, realized, had made her greedy. These staid, calmer days made her fearful, a little desolate, her heart oppressed with tears she was too proud to shed.

Fear that it was her fault that love had become a less flaming thing roared in her nervous little attempts to charm him.

"Is it new? Of course it's pretty, but honey-girl, you look beautiful to me in anything you put on."

She washed, with a pang of envy, that she had Cherry's irresistible lure, her inherent coquettishness, her adorable femininity. She could not imagine any man's growing tired of Cherry—if Cherry chose to love him.

Even now, though she knew Bob loved her with all his heart, Faith could not help noticing that his eyes listened with appreciation when Cherry appeared. Cherry was a constant feast to the eyes, with her copper-and-gold curls flowing babyishly over her small head, with her sweet, sulky, red little mouth, her rose-petal skin pale and flushing under a blush of passion. His eyes seemed to miss none of the feast, even when disapproving, resenting her taking up so much of his wife's time, for being an inevitable third when they two wanted to be alone together.

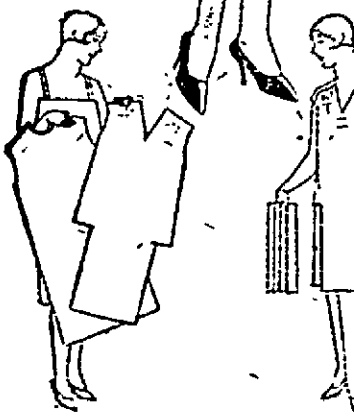

And then one evening Cherry was mysteriously missing, and Faith's and Bob's pleasure in their mutual privacy in the living room of the new home was tarnished with anxiety as to what Cherry was doing and with whom she was doing it.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

The pointer for today is: THE INITIAL BID IN CONTRACT BRIDGE SHOULD BE ONLY SLIGHTLY MORE CONSERVATIVE THAN IN AUCTION BRIDGE.

Bridge players who take up Contract, soon realize that the temptation to make high bids and the drastic penalties which result from severe sets, make it a "dangerous game." It is but natural, therefore, that the slogan "Bid conservatively" should be heard; and the first plan suggested was to use Bridge bids as a basis, adding the requirement of an additional Ace or its equivalent for Contract bids. For Contract jumps, to require one tick more than the strength needed for a Bridge raise was deemed necessary.

Carrying conservatism to this extreme resulted in the passing out of innumerable game-going hands and in leaving many original bidders in no play one-contrasts with game-going hands. In the long run, game-going hands come with equal frequency to both sides. To pass out the deal, or to play a gamegoer with out bidding

COMPOSERS TRY TO END SONG REPEATS

Say Too Much Broadcasting Kills Market Value of Many Songs

New York—Frequent repetition of popular musical selections on the radio has brought the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers to the point of trying to prevent such occurrence.

In order to accomplish its aim, the society, has started a movement among the broadcasters to prevent such repetition not only for the good of the composers and publishers, but to maintain the good standing of broadcasters with the radio fans.

The reason, for the composers, is that excessive broadcasting of a new and popular piece quickly destroys the market for it in published and recorded form. For the broadcasters, it is that fans get sick and tired of a piece that is repeated too often in one evening, and turn their dials away from the stations committing the error.

"It is not unusual," says E. C. Mills, who represents the society, "to hear a popular number broadcast in any particular area from six to a dozen times in an evening."

"Long before the public has had opportunity to purchase the rolls, phonograph records, or the music in sheet form, the composition has been blasted to death and the public is weary of even hearing it."

Mills therefore suggests that broadcasters adopt the plan of theatre managers, in permitting a song to be sung only once during their entire evening's program. The team that rehearses it first, gets it for its act. Others must substitute something else.

This at least would eliminate repetition of one song by the same radio station. But it can't prevent a fan from happening to tune it in several times an evening, as he switches from one broadcaster to another. For that, Mills can suggest no remedy.

FARMERS RUSH WORK IN WRIGHTSTOWN VICINITY

Special to Post-Crescent
Wrightstown—The farmers in this vicinity are very active at this time, many of them working from dawn till dusk in the hay fields. The hay crop is long and heavy this year and many farmers are complaining of the difficulty in handling it.

Several farmers have begun harvesting peas. Peter Leiberger is at work on a 25-acre tract and the peas seem to be of an exceptionally good quality.

Mr. Leiberger has one team of horses at the mower cutting the vines in the field and two teams hauling them to the viney in one corner of the farm. A large tractor furnishes power for the mow. One man attends the straw carrier, one fills the pikes, one feeds the machine, one attends the machinery and others are busy driving the teams. The peas are taken to the plant of the Baker Cannery Co. at Dodge.

KAWS LOSE ANOTHER GAME IN VALLEY LOOP

Oshkosh Wallops Gehl's Outfit by 12 to 2 Score Sunday Afternoon

Kaukauna—Four baseball meant a 12 to 2 beating for the Kaukauna entry in the Fox River Valley league Sunday when Oshkosh came to Kaukauna. The visiting team was better and the score shows the difference between the two squads. The Sawdust City team played bang-up baseball all the way. The Kawmen scored two less runs in the ninth inning after Oshkosh had a twelve run lead. Gehl's outfit, the Oshkosh wallop, let the Kaws off with six hits, while Stegeman and Klister permitted nine. Stegeman was sent in to relieve Klister in the seventh inning when the latter was in difficulty. Kaukauna's pitching was average and had there been an average support, the result of the game might have been different.

Oshkosh started to win in the first inning when Felker and Bixby scored. The Sawdust City team went scoreless after that until the sixth when Wilson, Klister and Hartman scored on a couple of hits aided by Kaw errors. Gietzen drew a walk in the seventh and reached third on a sacrifice hit by Pochojka. He scored on Felker's three bagger and Felker came in on a hot single by Bixby who later was caught napping at second. The big inning for Oshkosh was the eighth. Hakbarth, first up, was hit by a pitched ball. Hartman walked. Weed was safe on an error. Schultz, scoring Hakbarth and Hartman, and Pochojka scored. Weed on another hit. Schultz and Pochojka then scored on sacrifice hits by Felker and Bixby.

The Kaws got their two runs in the ninth when Kilgas and Stegeman hit safely and then came home on an error by the Oshkosh second baseman.

MERENESS PITCHES CUBS TO 7-1 WIN

Chilton Pitchers Hit Hard by Electric City Amateur Organization

Kaukauna—The Kaukauna Cubs still remain undefeated. Sunday the sterling Kaukauna aggregation 12-1 beat Chilton where it trounced the Calumet county team 7 to 1. Hits were few and far between for the southern team. Mereness was doing the twirling and he struck out 13 of the enemy and didn't issue a walk. Chilton managed to get 5 hits, one of which was good for two bases. While Chilton was setting these few hits Kaukauna was batting two pitchers all over the lot and at the end of the game the safekeeping of the game. The Cubs had a total of 14 safeties. Nine of the fourteen were off of Miller and five were secured off of Ostup's twirling. Ostup was sent in to relieve Miller in the final inning when the Kawmen started an honest to goodness barrage of hits.

After the first inning Chilton was finished as scoring was confined to Miller, the first man up, hit a two base and Everix, next up, scored him with a single. Mereness tightened and the scoring was ended.

The Cubs hit in practically every inning, but the first score did not cross the home plate until the sixth inning when Miller and Vils got bases on balls. Both scored on hits by Mereness and Hishon. Johnson and Mereness scored for the Cubs in the eighth after hitting safekeeping. A solid poke by Posson ended Johnson and Mereness was forced home when Beyer was walked.

There were still more fireworks in the ninth inning. With a 4 to 2 lead the Cubs were not content and Miller, first up, started the festivities with a healthy single. Vils struck out.

Johnson scored Miller on a hot single. Mereness led safely for one base and Johnson and Mereness scored on Hishon's hot drive through the infield.

SELECT PREACHER TO CENSOR WHAT BOSTON MAY READ

Mayo Who Doesn't Read Fiction Will Pass Judgment on Books

Boston, Mass.—A small town minister who doesn't read fiction and who would add an amendment to the Constitution curtailing the "dirty literature" of modern novelists is Boston's new book censor.

He is Rev. Charles S. Bodwell, new secretary of the Watch and Ward Society. It will be his duty to tell Boston what it may not read.

An old state law will help him enforce his censorship, the same law which already has banned Sinclair Lewis' "Elmer Gantry," Theodore Dreiser's "American Tragedy," and recently "Oil," by Upton Sinclair.

Rev. Bodwell admits he doesn't read much fiction. But he expects to get caught up on modern books when he takes office in August.

His standards of what is good or bad, he said, will be based on what is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Luther Harwood, Mrs. Harwood has just returned from a visit to Kansas City and her mother accompanied her to this city. She plans to remain for the summer.

Mrs. George Krone of Madison, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Charles Luther.

Misses Germaine and Phyllis Luther are visiting friends in Manitowish.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schommer and family motored through the northern part of the state this week. They were accompanied on the trip by their guests, Miss Irma Benzick and Leonard Meyer of Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. William Schneiss were in Granville Friday to attend the funeral of the latter's brother, Adam. He died of cancer of the stomach and was 53 years of age and is survived by his widow.

But one marriage license was issued by the county clerk during the past week, that of Walter Kuester and Miss Florence Greve, both of the town of New Holstein.

Verna Lorenz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amund Lorenz, is in St. Elizabeth hospital in Appleton, where she was operated Thursday for appendicitis.

On the same day her brother Earl had his tonsils removed in the same hospital. The parents were with the children for a few days.

TOO MUCH REALISM

"Dirty literature is prevalent under the term 'realism,'" said Rev. Bodwell. "Many of the books by the lending present day writers are entirely too frank or suggestive to be on open sale."

By dirty literature he means "any book which would put immoral thoughts into people's minds."

"Law should be for the protection of minds and morals as well as the protection of the bodies," said the clergyman. "Obscene literature must be handled in the same way that municipal boards of health handle garbage."

That's why he thinks a constitutional amendment desirable. If the government can't legislate morals, it can remove temptation, he holds. First liquor was denied minors, now it is prohibited adults—he sees the same national trend in books.

BACKED BY POLICE

For fifty years the Watch and Ward Society, a voluntary organization of private citizens, has chaperoned Boston's morals. If its leaders found a play, a movie, a book, or a magazine suggestive, they phoned the police and the vice squad clamped down the lid.

The former book censor and secretary of the society, the late Rev. Frank Chase, was a man of lenient rules, who believed if an author closed a chapter at the right place, a book was O. K.

But Rev. Bodwell announces a stricter campaign. He was appointed at the height of a six months' war between booksellers and the police, in which twelve modern novels were banned.

WOULD CENSOR BIBLE

Asked about the Bible and Shakespeare, which Upton Sinclair recently announced, contained passages which would make them "obscene" under the Massachusetts law, Rev. Bodwell said:

"Certain paragraphs in both books should be cut out in an edition open to the general public." But he won't take any action on these books at the present.

Modern literature will be his battle ground.

"Older writers were such geniuses that their obscene paragraphs could be overlooked, but in modern novels a salacious page overshadows the whole book and ruins young and old alike," he said.

A kindly-looking man of 51, Rev. Bodwell has six children of his own. He answers "yes" to Upton Sinclair's question, "Would Boston make adults read childish literature?"

HE'S EXPERIENCED

Rev. Bodwell has had some experience in this kind of a job. He has been chairman of the Moral Welfare Committee of the Christian League sixteen-year-old boy or girl should read.

work in Lawrence. He is a graduate of Yale with A. B. and D. D. degrees, and is known throughout New England for his work in federated church activities.

Massachusetts' new book censor lives in a modest little frame house in Methuen. He works a backyard potato patch for recreation and to swell the family larder. Two hundred years ago, his Puritan ancestors settled in New England. And two hundred years from now, he hopes that such strict laws will be in operation that books such as "The Plastic Age," "Oil," and "Elmer Gantry" won't be turned out upon an "unprotected public."

"Progress doesn't mean unlicensed liberty to write and talk—it means advancement within respectable channels," said Rev. Bodwell.

Upon Sinclair came to Boston when his book "Oil" was banned, and has been endeavoring to have himself arrested to test the censorship law.

NO CONVICTIONS

John Gritz, a 20-year-old book clerk, sold a copy of "Oil" to the police, and was fined $100.

Donald Friede, vice-president of the house which published Dreiser's "American Tragedy," sold a copy to the district attorney and was arrested and fined $100.

Both Gritz and Friede have appealed their cases.

Clarence Darrow may be brought to Boston by book publishers and sellers to aid in fighting the censorship restrictions.

Each side maintains the controversy has just begun. Authors and publishers would overthrow the law. Its backers want it more strictly enforced.

The Woman's City Club of Boston has sponsored meetings at which speakers condemned censorship. Meanwhile "book bootlegging" has become a profitable Boston profession.

The northernmost hospital is at Point Hope, Alaska, within the Arctic circle.

That Appleton baseball team wrote a Comedy of Errors at Brandt park Sunday afternoon and as a result Green Bay's winning streak has been placed at six straight. Eight false moves of mind and body were recorded by the official scorer and there were times when he closed his eyes as he marked a hit for what might also have been called another error.

But when William S. wrote his little play on errors he did the work alone and with no particular damage. The boys on your ball team all wanted a hand in the new play and wrote what rightly should be called a tragedy. It was a tragedy to Sternberg for he happened to be the goat and though only six hits were garnered off his delivery the antics of his mates were too much for him. The little fellow had three hits and the same miserable support recorded on the deficit side of the books.

The score in this particular ball game was 9 and 5 the local pothe when it looked for a time as though coming in for a defeat. The boys on your ball team might win in spite of the errors. Green Bay counted nine good and indifferent hits in comparison with Appleton's ten solid swipes. But those errors!

Getting down to the fine points in the afternoon matinee, Green Bay retired in very orderly fashion in the first half. Hillman, first up smacked the first ball pitched for a single over third base. Cully Schultz put over a sacrifice bunt and it looked like a big afternoon for Lewellen. Tarnoff followed with a single through third base and Hillman halted at the hassock and the fast corner. But he was doomed to die under the Tarnoff was stung and ground out. Cully to Becker and Baez grounded out.

Green Bay again acted gentlemanly in the second and with two away in the Appleton half of the inning Van Wyck tripled to deep center. He too was to die at third base for Ashman ended the inning by flying out to left. The boys scored their first run in the first of the third. Kirkoff getting a single over second and scoring on a questionable two-bagger through short. Becker reached first on a single but Ashman caught him asleep off the bag and the Bay second baseman was retired Ashman to Radke. Lannoye then grounded out.

Appleton again threatened in the third frame when Cully pitched ball. Cully went to third on Tarnoff's double and while Baez was trying to find a ball to his liking attempted to steal home. He didn't.

Both teams took things easy in the fourth inning little knowing that a riot was to start in the fifth. Lewellen was first up for the Green Sox in the fifth and he was to be the hero. He was followed by Kirkoff with a double that put the packer halfback on third. Becker then lofted a high sacrifice fly to Hillman in left and Lew started for the plate. The throw in was good and if Ashman had waited at the base for the ball he would have had the Bay pitcher by the proverbial mile. But he didn't. He threw the ball and the ball from the plant just as Lewellen crashed into him. Well, Miami won't be able to beat Nebraska for several years to come and Rod was thrown for a loss and dropped the pill. Kirkoff was following Lewellen and Ashman attempted to recover in time to toss to Sternberg and get the runner. He failed, over-anxious dropped the ball and the several hundred Bay fans went into hysterics.

Becker helped the Appleton cause along by flying out but again he butted. He was to be the hero. He was followed by Kirkoff with a double that put the packer halfback on third. Becker then lofted a high sacrifice fly to Hillman in left and Lew started for the plate. The throw in was good and if Ashman had waited at the base for the ball he would have had the Bay pitcher by the proverbial mile. But he didn't. Well, Miami won't be able to beat Nebraska for several years to come and Rod was thrown for a loss and dropped the pill. Kirkoff was following Lewellen and Ashman attempted to recover in time to toss to Sternberg and get the runner. He failed, over-anxious dropped the ball and the several hundred Bay fans went into hysterics.

Becker helped the Appleton cause along by flying out but again he butted. He was to be the hero. He was followed by Kirkoff with a double that put the packer halfback on third. Becker then lofted a high sacrifice fly to Hillman in left and Lew started for the plate. The throw in was good and if Ashman had waited at the base for the ball he would have had the Bay pitcher by the proverbial mile. But he didn't. He threw the ball and the ball from the plant just as Lewellen crashed into him. Well, Miami won't be able to beat Nebraska for several years to come and Rod was thrown for a loss and dropped the pill. Kirkoff was following Lewellen and Ashman attempted to recover in time to toss to Sternberg and get the runner. BRITISH OPEN GETS UNDER WAY IN RAIN

Bill Mehlhorn and Bobby Jones in First Rounds of Qualifying Test

St. Andrews, Scotland.—(AP)—On two rain soaked courses qualification play for the British Open golf championship began Monday morning and conditions were much to liking of Americans. Pools of water dotted the historic fairways of the old St. Andrews. There was heavy rain before the first play and the afternoon rain threatened. Bill Mehlhorn was the first of some dozen Americans among the 207 competitors to tee off. He was paired with an amateur, W. A. Gordon Brown, of the Royal and Ancient. They played the new St. Andrews course.

Bobby Jones, defending his title, teed off three quarters of an hour after Mehlhorn. The champion played the old course where Cyril Tolley and Charles Mayo of New York were the first pair out. The qualification play consists of 18 holes on one course and 18 tomorrow on the other.

Bobby Jones teed off in pouring rain with a breeze blowing off the North Sea. The downpour did not keep a gallery of about a thousand from following him.

Vari-colored umbrellas circled the green as he holed out a four foot putt for a par four.

K-C MILL TEAM LOSES TO JERSILD KNITTERS

Kimberly—The Jersild Knitting company squad of Neenah trimmed the first team of the Kimberly-Clark Inter-department hardball loop, 12-8, here Saturday afternoon.

Neenah had the victory practically clinched after a disastrous second inning for the Kimberly-Clark team. The Jersilds scored seven runs on three hits. A sixth inning scoring rally which netted the visitors the other five runs settled the matter. Neenah had eight hits to four for Kimberly, lost on error to seven for the locals. Kosloski, Williams, Madson and Britzke did the heavy work with the stick for Neenah. Du Chane had two singles, Courchane, a hit and two runs, and Krueger a hit and one run, for the losers.

WOODROOM BEATEN BY PIPEFITTERS SUNDAY

Kimberly—The Pipefitters defeated the Woodroom squad by a 10-0 score in a Kimberly-Clark Inter-department hardball loop game. The Pipefitters had easy going throughout and took the lead from the start. They had ten hits and no errors to five hits and seven errors for the Woodroom crew. Sandefoot, Toedrick and Marlowe started for the winners, and Lannoye had two hits and the Woodroom only run.

THIS CHAP KNEW HIS STUFF, $365.10 FOR $2

When L. C. Everett, owner of Blue Blood, bid $20 on that horse to win recently at Homestead he must have known his stuff. Blue Blood won, and he paid odds of $365.10 for a $2 ticket. And he paid odds of $365.10 for a $2 ticket. And he paid odds of $365.10 for a $2 ticket.

HITS AND ERRORS

Two games in two days is pretty strenuous work especially when you're working a 11 to 7 shift down at the mills. That probably accounts for some of the erratic and indifferent play Sunday.

The crowd at the game Sunday was over the 2,000 mark and was the largest seen in the park since the old state league was at the height of its glory. Over half the fans were from Green Bay, however.

There was talk of protesting Saturday's game at Menasha over the decision of one of the umpires. But when the Appleton gang got hitting the ball the protest was forgotten. It does make a difference which side the fence you're on.

Zanefski, who tried to pitch the full game against Appleton Saturday in the week and was not in the best of condition. He's reported as having an arm but even now weakens once in a while.

The Appleton squad fattened its average considerably in the two games even though they did lose one. The team had standings are due soon and the Batmen should hold nearly all the honors.

Eddie Sternard, our own Eddie from the P-C, umpired Saturday's game at Menasha and didn't do a half bad job. We didn't agree on the way he saw some of them, out to error is human. Once he got in wrong with the Appleton squad but they forgot their troubles when clubs became trumps and they continued to win.

C. L. Pre-ontaine the league proxy was a spectator at Sunday's game and we had a chance to make his acquaintance. Naturally he enjoyed the game and the crowd and the work of his umpires was passed by unchallenged.

Sunday's crowd at Brandt park was so large that the grand stands creaked and groaned and broke in one place. Aside from a bit of sagging that made a few of the folks move elsewhere no heavy damage was done.

Loeffler got the merry razz from Appleton fans in the latter part of the game. A homerun had been hit over the boards in his field and when the ball came back he put it in his pocket. Someone saw his however, and a fan's request to throw the ball back into the field.

Brautigan claimed he was hit by a pitched ball Saturday at Menasha and his protest was not allowed. Saturday the same thing happened and again he netted him nothing. Apparently the umpires are wiser than Dutch on the plays.

Baez, who handles the Appleton finances, etc., and who has experienced some terrible afternoons in the sun garden bought himself a pair of sun glasses and is a regular fielder now. He had two shoestrings catches Sunday.

ANNOUNCE PLANS FOR U. OF W. TICKET SALE

Admission to Madison Games This Year Increased 50 Cents

Madison—Season tickets to football games will be on sale for the first time to alumni and the public at large. It has been announced by George W. Lewis, director of ticket sales, University of Wisconsin.

The coupon books, totaling approximately 3,000 will cost $12.00 each, and will give the purchaser access to all five home games. One thousand books will be placed at the disposal of alumni, according to Mr. Lewis. The remainder will be distributed to the public.

Besides the tickets for the home games, the books to be sold to alumni each will contain a coupon which may be exchanged for a ticket to the Chicago game. The coupons must be exchanged before Oct. 15, and must be accompanied by $3.00.

Alumni this year will be entitled to only two instead of four tickets in the alumni section. It was pointed out by Mr. Lewis. Should more than this number be desired, they must be secured in the public section. Each alumnus will be restricted to two season books. Alumni will be seated in sections A, R, C, D and E. The public section will be located in the east stands of the stadium.

An increase of 50 cents in the admission price for each home game will go into effect this year. Single tickets will cost $2.00 instead of $2.50 for alumni and public. Students are still charged the usual price of 50 cents.

Application blanks will be mailed out of the office of the director of ticket sales early in August. The returned applications will not be opened until Sept. 1. They will be received before that time, however, and no penalty will be imposed for early mailing. All orders received before Sept. 1 will be filed as of September first and shuffled and drawn by lot and filed in the order in which they are drawn.

A certified check, draft or money order including 20 cents for return postage, must accompany every application, according to Mr. Lewis. Tickets will be mailed to applicants ten days prior to each game. Should alumni wish more than the two tickets allotted them in the alumni section, they should make separate application for seats in the public section. If applications for more than two tickets are received in the same envelope from an alumnus, he will be given seats in the public section.

CUBS INCREASE LEAD TO FULL GAME WITH WIN OVER BROOKLYN

Yankees Are Defeated by Detroit as Ruth and Gehrig Are Stopped

Another reason why the Chicago Cubs are leading the National League has been added to a growing list. Eddie Pick, recently acquired by Manager Joe McCarthy from the Kansas City blues, broke up a pitcher's battle in Brooklyn Sunday with a line drive homerun over the right center-field fence at Ebbets field. The Cubs as a unit couldn't do much with the pitching of Norman Pitz but Guy Dush was even more of a puzzle to Wilbert Robinson's Dodgers and the Cubs won 1 to 0.

The Pittsburgh Pirates were idle so the Chicago victory increased that team's margin in first place to a full game. Virgil Barnes led the world's champion Cards down with one hit in the first game of a doubleheader, the Giants winning 5 to 0. St. Louis came back to win the next, 7 to 3, behind Bob McGraw's effective twirling.

The Gehrig-Ruth homerun marathon was interrupted in Detroit by Earl Whitehill, whose southern shanks gave the Tigers a 6 to 2 victory over the Yankees in the stand-out game of the American league. Whitehill, by fanning Ruth twice and holding him hitless, and adding two more strikeouts at the expense of Gehrig while giving him one hit, upset the calculations of the "Yankees" home run twins to their evident disgust. The scores was Detroit 6, New York 2.

Washington made it five straight from the Cleveland Indians by winning by a 10-0 score in seven innings. The Athletics pounded three St. Louis pitchers hard and won a slugfest from the Browns 14-11. Simmons of Philadelphia stole home in the fifth. The Boston Red Sox lapped into the old stride at Chicago and Ray Schalk's team beat them 4-1.

Milwaukee celebrated a double header Sunday afternoon by trimming Toledo twice, 18 to 1 and 4 to 1 and cut down the Mudhens' hold on first place. The game was played before 16,178 howling bugs, the largest crowd ever packed into the 5th and Chambers park.

Kansas City split the matinee's program with Columbus 5 and 1 and 2 and 3. Minneapolis and Indianapolis did likewise with scores of 8 and 7 and 3 and 5.

In St. Paul the Saints put over a triple play in one of the afternoon's games which aided them in killing off Louisville, 10 and 2 and 9 and 4.

BABE RUTH HOLDER OF TWO EXTREME RECORDS

Babe Ruth holds two batting records that are decidedly opposite, yet great proficiency in one was directly responsible for the other.

Ruth with 59 home runs tops the major leagues in the matter of circuit drives for a season, and his 170 passes to first is the most any player has ever received in one year.

As a rule, bases on balls are the result of a discriminating eye on the part of the batsman. Babe Ruth's record in receiving 170 franks to first base during the 1923 season was forced upon him, often most unwillingly.

Let me explain: Ruth, in 1923, had made 54 home runs, almost doubling the former record of 29, made the year previous by himself. In 1923, he reached his peak with 59, the all-time record, while in 1922 he dropped to 24.

A total of 167 home runs over a period of four years caused major league managers to decide it was the better part of valor to pass Ruth to first when danger threatened.

During the 1923 season, Ruth became the "big parade" of the majors with 170 passes. Despite the unwillingness of the pitchers to take any chances with him, he came through with 41 circuit trips.

Young Souders set a new track record in coping the event from a fast field. He finished in 41 seconds over an hour fast.

SHARKEY DEVELOPS PUNCHES IN SECRET

Fighters Are Rapidly Rounding into Shape for July 21 Meeting

New York.—(AP)—Speed, a right up-purcut and a left jab appear to be what Jack Sharkey is perfecting for his fight with Jack Dempsey here the night of July 21.

Sharkey's vaunted left has been noticeably absent in his early training sessions and his right hand hook—the punch that erased Jimmy Malone from the heavyweight picture, has been on display only once or twice. The right hook, according to one of the Bostonian's staff, is being developed under cover. The up-purcut has been brought into play often.

The ex-boxer is sticking to his road-work and gets in four miles or more each morning before going to the gymnasium for his sparring sessions. His wind is excellent. Sunday he went at top speed for six rounds without breathing hard.

DON'T LAST LONG

Saratoga Lake, N. Y.—(AP)—The life of a sparring partner is short and bitter in the training camp of Jack Dempsey. Two new heavyweights coming in Sunday passed a try on the way out, and the books of relief in the eyes of the departing guests could be matched only by anxiety of the boys who had just appeared for seeking duty with the former champion.

After sparring waivers on Jack Hildebrand, Petro Corri and Bill Bates, Leo P. Flynn handed them releases and one way transportation south simultaneously. The usefulness of Hildebrand, a Syracuse heavyweight, ceased at the moment of his knockout by Dempsey's hands in the last two work-outs. Petro Corri, strong man from Austria had been badly battered and Bates was found too light for the rugged going.

Both newcomers, Chief Metoquah, a 155 pound Indian from Oklahoma and Marley Callahan, a 175 lb. lad from Washington, D. C. were ordered to bear their part of the boxing burden Monday. The schedule for Dempsey this week, his last full seven days before the comeback battle with Sharkey in the Yankee stadium, a week from Thursday night, contains about as many drastic musical scores.

Sharkey will lay off Tuesday to start the Lake George swimming marathon and his splendid physical condition forecasts another break on Thursday and Friday. Sunday, Jack played 18 holes of golf with Manager Flynn and manager to score 104.

MENASHA BEATEN BY APPLETON IN NINTH INNING COMEBACK

Five Pitchers Paraded Before Fans in Saturday Afternoon Game

Menasha — The Menasha ball club had a taste of the fruits of victory here Saturday afternoon but just when they were beginning to enjoy the luxury it was taken away from them the sour dregs of defeat substituted. In other words Menasha had a ball game all won and ready to take home by a 10 to 3 score when the Appleton club, their opponents of the afternoon, up and hammered eight runs across the plate in the eighth and ninth innings and went away the victors. The final score was 11 and 10.

It was a fast hitting contest as the score shows and five pitchers took their turn on the hill. Appleton used three and Menasha paraded two. Mayefski started for the Papermakers but became too generous in the second inning and was sent to the showers. He was followed by "Slow Motion" Dush who hit two home runs and all his team got ahead in the ninth and Sternberg was called in to take care of the last three Pails.

For the home club Zanefski started but a two day rest was not enough for him after the Wausau game earlier in the week and he retired in favor of Powell in the eighth inning. Powell was greeted with plenty of trouble and before he could bring the game to an end it had been won by the Batmen.

Appleton drew first blood in the second inning when Cully Schultz found the range of the fence and parked the ball on the far side for a home run. The advantage was soon leveled for in the half of the second Menasha proceeded to show Mayefski what they thought of his pitching.

Dombroski was first up in the inning and drew a walk. Zanefski followed with a double to left and Dombroski pulled up at third. When Van Wyck, Appleton centerfielder, misjudged G. Weisberger's throw, he hit to center and it went for a two-bagger. Dombroski and Zanefski scored. Weisberger was later caught at the plate trying to score, Ashman to Tarnoff to Ashman.

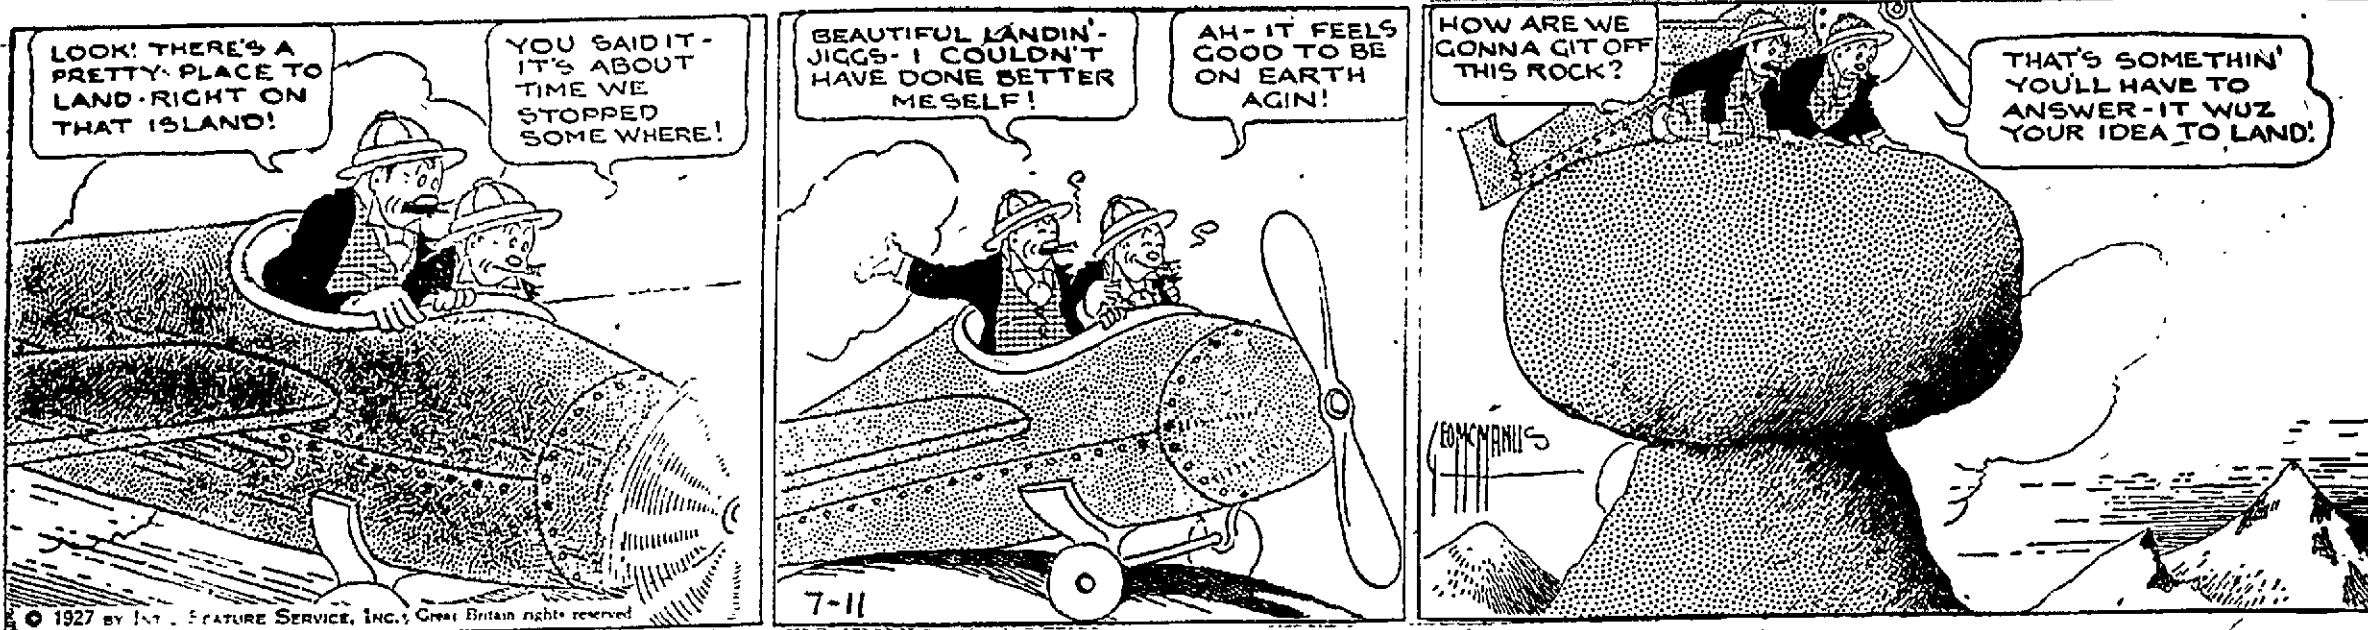

With one out Lavandowski worked Mayefski for another walk and stole second. It was on this play that Van Wyck attempted to come home and was out. Joe Onar walked single to left field and Lavandowski managed to reach third. Joe's brother Al then hit a single back of first but was forced at second. Tarnoff to Schultz while Lavandowski scored. Crowe had replaced Mayefski in the box.

Schultz got a hit through fielder's choice. Powell

JACK LOCKWILL'S POLICE DOG

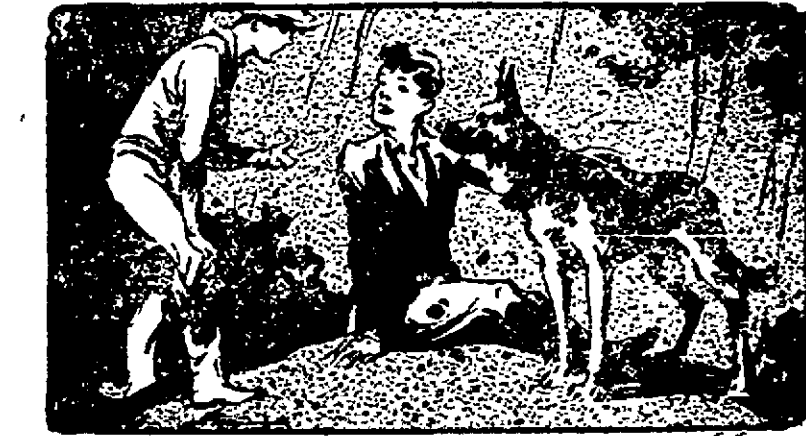

A few moments later, the helpless lad saw the eyes of the animal once more gleaming from the edge of the woods, and heard it whining queerly. In another moment, still another dim form appeared—a human form! "Help!" appealed Jack. "I'm bogged, and I can't get out." "Just hang on a jiffy, and mebbe I kin help yer," replied a voice that Jack took to be that of a boy.

Watching, Jack saw the boy choose a tall, stout sapling, which he climbed like a monkey, bending it out over the bog-hole. "Grab hold!" cried the stranger.

When the strange boy had swung back to solid ground, Jack, clinging to the sapling, was able to drag himself free of the sucking mud, and floundered out.

The dog came to Lockwill and sniffed at him as he lay, panting, on the ground. "Some dog!" said Jack, sitting up and caressing the animal. "I said you couldn't do anything for me, but I guess you brought help, after all." "Sure he did," confirmed the unknown boy. "I knew by his actions when he came to me that he'd found something, so I followed him." "Some dog!" repeated Jack. (To Be Continued)

BURGLARS OBTAIN $130 FROM DENTAL OFFICES IN CITY

Take Cash but Leave Checks and Gold Untouched—Also Enter Beauty Parlor

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London—The dental offices of Drs. G. A. Ostermeier, R. L. Fitzgerald and G. W. Polzin were entered some time Friday night or early Saturday, and $130 was taken from the safe. Dr. Ostermeier, who is in charge of banking the office money, was spending a few days at Bowler, and the money was left in the office safe during his absence. The robbery was not discovered until the office girl went to the safe to get some change, and found the money missing. There was no previous evidence of the office having been entered. Checks and gold for dental purposes were left untouched.

There were no door locks broken and the safe showed no indication of having been opened. It was later discovered that the Madame Louis Beauty shop had also been entered but nothing has been found missing. Entrance to both places probably was made by a skeleton key. Just how the safe was opened cannot be determined, as it was left securely fastened by Dr. Fitzgerald, who was the last one to leave the office, late Friday evening.

W. J. Driscoll, Appleton, with a bid of $65,217.91 was the low bidder, and the Simpson-Parker Co., Appleton, second low with a bid of $65,524.55. The matter of awarding the contract was left until late this week when Winneago-co board will report back on the possibility of doing the work on the day labor basis.

Other bidders were McCarthy Construction Co., Kaukauna; Green Bros., Appleton; Chris Johnson, Oshkosh; Universal Engineering Co., Medford.

GLAD TIDINGS-GLAD SMILES

If YOUR husband was lost in an airplane wandering about in the night over France, has gas low, his compasses kaput, land and water obscured by an oppressive fog—and then the radio brought the glad tidings that he had landed and was unharmed—what would you do? So did Mrs. Bert Acosta (left) and Mrs. George O. Noville, wives of two of the crew of Commander Byrd's monoplane, "America." You see them here at Roosevelt Field, L. I., just after the good news came over.

Don't Have To Walk Far Now To Reach Gas Station

Ten years ago the unfortunate motorist who ran out of gasoline in or near Appleton was out of luck. The chances are he had to walk at least a couple of blocks to find the nearest filling station. But if he "runs dry" today almost anywhere in the city just a few steps will take him to a filling station or at least a gas pump.

A survey by Joseph A. Hodgins, city sealer of weights and measures, reveals that there are 21 drive-in gas stations in the city limits with a total of 74 gasoline pumps. In addition to these are 27 curb stations with 38 pumps, making a total of 112 pumps in the entire city. Just outside the city limits there are 40 more gas pumps either at drive-in stations or at curb stops.

In 1917 there was only one drive-in station in the city, the Standard Oil company station at the corner of E. College-ave and S. Durkee-st. There were probably 40 pumps in all in the city.

The places are: Federal Highway 41 and State Highway 55; Highway 26, east and westbound traffic; highways 75 and 54; and highways 42 and 55.

STATE SOON WILL BE IN CONTROL OF WISCONSIN INDIANS

Schneider Confident That Federal Government Will
Relinquish Its Jurisdiction

An entirely new policy for dealing with Indians in Wisconsin will be adopted soon, in the opinion of George J. Schneider, member of Congress from the Ninth Wisconsin district. He has just returned from the Menominee Indian reservation where he conferred with H. P. Peairs, general superintendent of Indian affairs in the office in Washington, D. C.

A bill which would place the responsibility of Indian control in Wisconsin with the state rather than the Federal government was introduced in the last congress and Mr. Schneider is confident that it will be passed in the coming Congress.

GET FEDERAL AID

Mr. Peairs came here to confer with state officials and officers of the bureau of Indian affairs in regard to the proposed change in the plan of administration. The new policy is embodied in the La Follette Cooper bill which provides that the Federal government turn over to the state the duty and responsibility of educating the Indian the care, hospitalization and medical attention necessary for the Indians, and the care of the infirm, aged, and indigent Indians. The state would receive all of the funds generally appropriated for the purposes by congress and formally spent through the bureau of Indian affairs.

Under the new plan of administering affairs of Indians in Wisconsin the state board of health would have the duty and responsibility of the care, hospitalization and medical attention of the sick and injured among the Indians, and the care and prevention of communicable and infectious diseases and general sanitation. The state board of public instruction would construct and maintain schools and have charge of the education of the Indian. The state board of control will look after the aged and infirm and indigent Indians.

Such properties located in Wisconsin now in use for this purpose by federal agencies as the school buildings, equipment, stock farms, would be put at the disposal of state agencies assuming these responsibilities under the new plan.

Mr. Schneider is convinced that the old system of handling Indian affairs at long range through the agents at Washington will be a thing of the past. He is satisfied that this bill will be enacted at the beginning of the next congressional session.

WORK LINES UP

"Already the secretary of interior, Hubert Work," the congressman explained, "has committed himself in favor of the new plan. He wants to put it into effect at the earliest opportunity." It is at his direction Mr. Peairs is here, and with the Indian bureau physician general, will meet with the governor's committee to confer on the proposition. Members of the committee are Dr. C. A. Harper, secretary of the state board of health, John Calahan, superintendent of schools, John Hannan, president of the state board of control. The conference will be held the latter part of July.

Others who have been invited to attend the conference have been Senator Robert M. La Follette, Congressman Henry Allen Cooper and Congressman Schneider. The conference was called that a definite understanding and agreement of affairs be reached.

The old plan of administration has long been found inadequate and unsatisfactory, Mr. Schneider said. "For instance," he explained, "in the matter of education, children of Indians are taken away from their mothers and homes and sent to boarding schools often located great distances away and even outside of the state at times. This makes it impossible for the mother to see her children and causes all of the Indians to complain most emphatically against this." The Indians feel they have as much right to have their children educated near home as their white neighbors, the congressman continued.

"The Indians, as we also know, are now American citizens of the state of Wisconsin. It is this that makes us realize more and more the importance of trying to place the Indian on a higher plane and make him a better citizen. That in itself makes us feel the Indian is really the state's problem."

Mr. Schneider feels that the state agencies will be able to carry on more effectively the work necessary in connection with the Indians than has been done by the federal government.

"We must treat the Indian differently, we must give him an Indian education, but we must try to elevate him to the standards of the white man," he concluded.

NEED CERTIFICATE TO MAIL PLANT PRODUCTS

Plants and plant products for propagation are not to be accepted by post-offices for mailing in violation of the postal regulations, according to a warning issued by the postal department. Parcel post mailing of such plants must be accompanied by a certificate of inspection provided by the postal laws and regulations, the notice continued.

Violation of the rule is likely to result in the arrest of individuals and infestations or plant diseases, and is a serious matter, it was said. "Postmasters are again reminded that they must not accept for mailing parcels."

WHERE BYRD'S AIRPLANE FELL INTO SEA

Heavy waves and crowds of souvenir hunters wrecked the fuselage of the "America" as shown in the upper of these two remarkable photos. The picture was taken after the plane was pulled out of the water. The lower photo, of the rocky beach at Ver-sur-Mer, with the "America" in the distance, gives a graphic idea of the spot to which fate directed the ship after she was lost for hours over France in dense fog and rain. These photos were sent to NEA Service on the liner Aquitania.

Sawyer-co Is Where You

Will Find Lots Of Fish

BLAZED TRAILS FOR SPORTSMEN

BY E. A. CLAFFIN

There are many things connected with a fishing trip beside the actual catching of fish. If that were all we go for we could save time by anchoring a boat out in the nearest body of water containing perch or bullheads, and plunking out baited hook over the side of the boat until the desired number was caught. Anticipation may be greater than realization in some cases, but if your trip is properly planned, you will enjoy great benefit and much pleasure from any outing you take.

I want to speak of Sawyer-co when we recently returned after a very successful trip. You start in from Harvard. A drive from that point over 77 to Teal Lake is one of pleasant surprises along the whole route of some twenty odd miles. For a big portion of the way the road is shaded completely by great pines and other trees hundreds of years old. Occasionally through the trees you get a glimpse of the silvery sheen of a mirrored surface of a lake in its beautiful emerald setting. The air is cool and fragrant. The peculiar odor of the wild fern which, in that country, attains a height of six feet, is particularly pleasant.

JULY 15 IS LAST DATE TO MAKE PARIS RESERVATIONS

July 15 is the last date on which reservations for steamship passage to the American legion convention in Paris may be made according to Howard Dussert, Mosinee, convention officer of the Wisconsin department of the American legion. Reservations reported up to July 8 were nearly 400, with a possibility of many more if the legislature appropriates money to take state military organizations to Europe. Backer legionnaires are now booked on the Montroyal of the Canadian Pacific line and has a unique war record. During the war she carried 110,000 members of the first American expeditionary forces to France.

sant. And the roads are the crowning glory of Sawyer-co. Undulating and winding, they are vital, perfectly smooth so that driving over them, alone, is extremely pleasant, and the element of fatigue is lacking.

Then, as you wind through the heavy, virgin timber up to Ross' Resort on Teal Lake, rabbits dart across the road here and there, or the whirring of a startled partridge keeps you alert. And it is with unusual slight to see a deer amble slowly from the right of way.

When you arrive at the resort, which is on an elevation of some little height above the lake, the vista that greets your eyes is one to enthrall the most fastidious. Just enough openings through the trees have cleverly been made to afford you visions of different portions of the lake, which is some eight miles in length. In the distance you see numerous islands clothed in deep green at this time of the year. Later on they assume all the colors of the rainbow. The contrast they offer to the surrounding water is beautiful beyond description, and it is with difficulty that you can keep your eyes from getting into one of the boats which confront you at the landing. These boats are all equipped with outboard motors, so that the labor of travel is reduced to a minimum.

About two hundred yards to the right of the landing a reef extends out into the lake, and along this shallow water, if you care to use minnows, you can take all the Walleyes you care to, and they run up well in weight. Five to six pounders are not uncommon, and there is a mounted specimen over the door of the dining room which weighed ten pounds.

If you want muskies they are there. About three miles from the resort is the "thoroughfare." This leads into Lostland lake. Right along here some of the finest musky fishing may be enjoyed. Either casting or trolling is effective according to your whim.

All in all, this is a region that I can heartily recommend because you will never be disappointed so far as comfort, cuisine, scenery and, best of all, fish are concerned.

To show their appreciation of American relief work, Persian refugees have sent to this country a rug which contains 10,000,000 knots tied by hand.

CITY FILES BRIEF IN TAXPAYER SUIT

Plaintiff's Attorney Files Legal Statement of 65 Pages With Court

A brief, approximately 65 pages long, was filed last week with Judge H. S. Cowie, La Crosse, of the Sixth Judicial district circuit court, by A. H. Krugmeyer, attorney for Mr. and Mrs. George T. Richard tax suit brought by them as citizens of Appleton, against the city of Appleton, against the Outagamie-co, and in the subsequent injunction suit brought by the city against the county.

Bradford, assisting District Attorney John A. Lonsdorf and representing the county in the suit, are working on the brief for the county.

The briefs are the final representations of the city and county in the suit to test the legality of the general fund tax levied by the county board of supervisors at a special session on Dec. 10; and in the injunction suit brought by the city against the county to restrain Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer, from paying approximately $100,482 in alleged illegal taxes to the county.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard contend that the general fund tax is null and void because the board failed to determine the amount of money required for general fund purposes, and did not designate the purposes for which the money is to be spent. The injunction suit by the city is an outgrowth of the Richard case. It alleges that the amount of county taxes in question is inequitable and a fraud upon the city.

Judge Cowie was appointed to sit in the case by the board of circuit judges, after Judge Edgar V. Werner and, later, Judge Byron E. Park of Stevens Point, asked to be released.
